

Four Reasons Why Glass Tiling Would Be Perfect For Your Home

Published September 29, 2022

Interested in attaining sleek and modern styles with a bit of shine for your home? Here are four reasons why glass tiles would make a great and stylish option for your kitchen or bathroom flooring and backsplash.

Comes In An Array Of Options

Glass tile holds a lot of creative and stunning qualities. Our glass tile is available in several sizes, shapes, colors and finishes. In addition to unique colors, you have the ability to design your kitchen or bathroom flooring with patterns by mixing and matching different glass tiles that match the personality of your room. For example, in choosing two different colored glass tiles, you have the potential to have checkerboard tiling in your home.

Glass Tile Is A Great Environmentally Friendly Option

If you are intrigued by the idea of living in a greener home, glass tiling is a great choice. To make glass tiles, we use recycled glass originally from glass bottles. Installing a renewable and stylish option such as glass tiles into your home will bring you one step closer to being eco-friendly while still fashion forward.

Easy Maintenance Solution

Glass tiles are made of natural quality, so caring for them is effortless and trouble-free. In damp environments, the non-porous tile will not mildew or mold. Furthermore, since it is non-absorbent, it will not stain.

Bright And Beautiful Addition

While the glass tile is a stylish option, it also holds some great qualities. Due to the glass tiles' reflective surface, creating a space with glass tiles can help make a small space feel brighter and more open.

Published October 28, 2022

The entryway to your home allows loved ones to gather information about how the rest of your home will appear. Interested in making a great first impression for them? Here is a list of flooring that are sure to impress your guests.

Hardwood

Known for its beauty and durability, it is no surprise that hardwood flooring is the most popular flooring for any home. With an array of colors and species of natural wood, there are endless possibilities for hardwood flooring. When it comes to making the grand entrance to your home look even grander, deciding with the quality and easy-to-care for traits of hardwood flooring is a great way to go.

Laminate

If you are looking for the appearance of hardwood flooring without paying for the price of wood flooring, then look no further. With amazing durability and ease of maintenance and preservation, laminate flooring would make an incredible entryway flooring for your home without breaking your bank.

Vinyl

A perfect option for your home if you are looking for flooring that is able to repel moisture, resistant to stains and scratches, and is easy to clean. While vinyl would be adaptable for any space in your home, there are several unique styles you can choose for the flooring of any home entryway.

Stone

Natural stone, while it seems like an odd option, is actually another great choice to put in a home's entryways. Stone is perfect for any home looking for that unique, durable flooring that has a modern look to it. In addition to working with any type of home decor, there are a wide range of options when it comes to creating stone flooring that fits into the style of your home.

Benefits Of Laminate Flooring For Homes With Children

Published October 28, 2022

Taking care of your flooring can be difficult when you already have to take care of your children. In an environment with active little ones, it is important to take the right steps to choose the right foundation of your home. Here is why laminate flooring would be perfect for you.

Durable

Coated in resin and covered with a tough exterior layer, laminate flooring is able to withstand whatever children bring its way. Qualities of laminate flooring that are held within these exterior layers include being resistant to scratches and fading, repelling stains, and being impervious to moisture. With these extraordinary traits in mind, it makes sense as to why homeowners install laminate flooring into their homes to withstand the lifestyle of caring for children as well as their flooring.

Low Maintenance

Unlike natural hardwood flooring or carpet flooring, laminate flooring is uncomplicated and simple to take care of. With its durable and withstanding qualities, laminate flooring brings all the shine into any environment without having to put too much effort into floor care. These qualities of laminate flooring are not only presented in homes with children, but homes everywhere.

Looks Similar To Natural Hardwood Flooring—Without Paying The Price Of Hardwood

No one wants to pay the price along with taking care of the preservation of natural hardwood flooring. With laminate flooring, you do not have to. By combining all the qualities of easy to preserve, durable and low maintenance care, it is no wonder why parents with children have laminate flooring to fit into their exceptional home.
